Title

Reward #2:
Name your musical piece!

- Listen once.

What story does the music tell you?
learning to ride a bike

What does it make you remember or feel like?
when Grandpa makes me cookies

- Make your title match what you heard:
“The Bike Ride” or “Grandpa’s Cookies”

- If you don't hear a story or notice a feeling, listen again.
- If you still don't have a story or feeling from listening, choose a topic that interests you like outer space or animals or adventures and make a title that matches that topic. You can also just use your name or a simple title!

“Kitten Laying in the Sun”

“Walking on the Moon”

“Alecia’s Song”

“Best Friends”

“My First Music”
